

What's Your Language Superpower?

BRAIN POWER

Along with valuable qualities such as empathy and self-confidence, your language superpower is brain power!

Science has proven that language learning feeds your brain in important ways, enhancing cognition—those mental activities like thinking, remembering, and storing knowledge! As you build your language skills, you are improving your concentration, memory, multitasking and decision-making abilities, all while staving off future signs of mental aging and decline. You're an independent and critical thinker who can identify patterns, analyze the facts, and select the best path forward, no matter the situation!
