

What's Your Language Superpower?

COMMUNICATION

As well as having top-notch problem-solving and critical-thinking abilities, your language superpower is communication!

As a language learner, you practice and strengthen your communication skills every day by being an active listener and providing and receiving feedback. You focus on the most effective way to share information clearly with those surrounding you, taking into consideration factors like cultural understanding and diverse perspectives. You're a supportive and thoughtful collaborator who's an asset to any team project!
