

What's Your Language Superpower?

CURIOSITY

On top of other amazing qualities like increased empathy and a competitive advantage over monolingual peers, your language superpower is curiosity!

As you explore other languages and cultures, you're gaining valuable perspective and developing curiosity about how others communicate and perceive the world. Your language journey is a never-ending experience that fuels your sense of wonder and appreciation for all that you discover along the way. As a lifelong learner, you love hearing a word or expression for the first time, you feel wanderlust for unknown places and experiences, and you're not afraid to ask questions! Let your adventurous nature lead the way.
