

What's Your Language Superpower?

EMPATHY

In addition to other amazing benefits like communication and critical-thinking skills, your language superpower is empathy!

Sometimes called “putting yourself in someone else’s shoes,” this power is the ability to recognize and understand how another person thinks or feels. As you explore languages and cultures, you’re developing higher levels of compassion and tolerance for others’ perspectives, values, and beliefs. You’re a rising leader who prioritizes making sure that everyone is included and appreciated—in class, among your peers, and in your community.
